

The ISL system has a number of advantages:

- There is no expansion vessel to regularly service. We simply have a small air pocket that absorbs any water expansion as the system becomes hot.

- Very low maintenance, as the system does not need servicing or re-pressurising if there are any leaks or a release of water from the pressure relief valve.